Grafton College

6 April 2018

Dear Students,

As many of you will be aware, Grafton College was included in a BBC Panorama programme which aired in November 2017. This has led to further investigations by and discussions with a number of different organisations, including Pearson (the awarding body for Higher National courses) and the Department for Education (who regulate alternative providers to allow access to student loans). Some of this activity is still ongoing.

Whilst these discussions continue about how all partners can provide the highest quality education to learners, Grafton College have confirmed their intention to continue to teach students and support you in your studies for the moment. Following the Easter break, teaching will resume on 21 May 2018.

There are no further planned changes to teaching or delivery. If there is any change to this, Grafton College will contact you.

We understand that the ongoing activity may be a cause for concern for you and we will try to continue to answer any questions that you might have.

Please feel free to contact 0208 749 8367 (Grafton College) or email at support@graftoncollege.com with any questions. In addition, you can contact Pearson directly at students@pearson.com.

Yours sincerely,

Sally Peacock
